SEC closely monitors the situation and potential risks to the systems supporting capital market services

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is closely monitoring the situation relating to disruptions affecting service providers' systems and maintaining ongoing coordination with the Stock Exchange of Thailand, regulated business operators, and other relevant agencies. In this regard, trading systems continue to operate normally, and regulated business operators continue to provide services.

Investors are advised to follow relevant updates directly through the communication channels of their service providers. Should investors have any enquiries or encounter difficulties in accessing services, they may contact the SEC through the following channels: the SEC Complaint Center at 1207; SEC's Facebook page, "สำนักงาน กลต."; or SEC Live Chat at www.sec.or.th.
